I. Executive Summary

The U.S. General Services Administration (GSA) is submitting this quarterly report to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) per the requirements of Executive Order (E.O.) 13821, “Streamlining and Expediting Requests to Locate Broadband Facilities in Rural America.” Pursuant to subsection 2(e) of E.O. 13821, this report provides an aggregated summary of the revised SF-299 application data submitted to GSA by the Federal property managing agencies during the third quarter (Q3) of fiscal year (FY) 2024. The aggregated summary of results includes data on the number of revised SF-299 applications received by each Federal property managing agency for wireless facility siting permits, the number and percentage of applications approved, the number and percentage rejected, the basis for any rejection, and the number of working days each application was pending before being approved or rejected.

II. Background

On January 8, 2018, the President issued E.O. 13821, “Streamlining and Expediting Requests to Locate Broadband Facilities in Rural America,” to accelerate the deployment and adoption of broadband connectivity in rural America and enable sustainable rural broadband infrastructure projects. The order directs Federal property managing agencies¹ to:

- seek to reduce barriers to capital investment;
- remove obstacles to broadband services;
- use the GSA Common Form Application, as revised, if necessary, to evaluate requests to locate broadband facilities on Federal property; and
- report to GSA on a quarterly basis regarding their use of the Common Form Application.

Section 6409 of the Middle-Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act of 2012 (Public Law No. 112-96) requires, among other things, that GSA develop a common form and master contract for siting wireless infrastructure on buildings and other property owned by the Federal Government. E.O. 13821 expands on section 6409 in several ways, including the requirement for GSA and Federal property managing agencies to report quarterly on the number of Common Form Applications received, the number and percentage approved, the number and percentage rejected, the basis for any rejection, and the number of working days each application was pending before being approved or rejected.

III. GSA Reporting Requirements under Executive Order 13821

Subsections 2(d) and (e) of E.O. 13821 require the following:

- (a) Within 180 days of the date of the order, and on a quarterly basis thereafter, all Federal property managing agencies must report to GSA regarding their required use of the Common Form Application, the number of Common Form Applications received, the number and percentage approved, the number and percentage rejected, the basis for any rejection, and the number of working days each application was pending before being approved or rejected. Each report must include the number of applications received, approved, and rejected within the preceding quarter; and
- (b) Ninety days after the date of the order, and on a quarterly basis thereafter, GSA must prepare and provide to the Director of OMB an aggregated summary report detailing results from the reports submitted under subsection 2(d).

Pursuant to subsection 2(e) of the order, this report summarizes the results of the data submitted to GSA by the Federal property managing agencies under subsection 2(d) and includes an aggregated summary of the number of Common Form Applications received, the number and percentage approved, the number and percentage rejected, the basis for any rejection, and the number of working days each application was pending before being approved or rejected.

In collecting and summarizing the Common Form Application data, GSA counted agency use of either the Common Form Application or the SF-299, “Application for Transportation and Utilities Systems and Facilities on Federal Lands.” The SF-299 is required for use by all agencies for easements and rights-of-way; however, in conversations with other land management agencies, GSA discovered that many agencies were also using the SF-299 as their application for antenna installations. GSA discussed this point with the Executive Office of the President at a meeting in January 2018, where it was agreed that the SF-299, rather than the Common Form Application, should be revised to better meet both agency and industry needs regarding the common form antenna installation application. OMB approved the revised SF-299 on February 14, 2020. As a result, the SF-299, as revised, is now the exclusive form used by non-Federal entities to request approval to install telecommunications equipment on Federal assets and lands. Accordingly, for this report, GSA collected information from the Federal property managing agencies on the use of the SF-299, as revised.

IV. Data Collection and Reporting Results

To facilitate and streamline the collection of the information required under subsection 2(d) of E.O. 13821, GSA created and distributed a survey, in July 2024, to 42 Federal property managing agencies and bureaus. Appendix A lists the survey questions; Appendix B lists all the Federal property managing agencies and bureaus that GSA surveyed, and which agencies responded to the survey; and, for those agencies that responded to the survey, Appendix C identifies those agencies that processed applications for permits during the reporting period and Appendix D summarizes data at the agency level for review.

In accordance with E.O. 13821 and in collaboration with the Streamlining Federal Permitting Workstream (SFP), GSA staff created the following definitions to classify more comprehensively the various stages of the permit application process:

- Application Received Date – The date on which an agency receives a complete (duly filed) application, including any attachments.
- Date Approved – The date on which the authorizing agency completes its review of a duly filed application and transmits the authorization to the applicant, otherwise known as the date the authorization was offered to an applicant. For purposes of the survey, an authorization means a permit, lease, grant, or some other contractual agreement.
- Date Rejected – The date on which the agency rejects an application (usually an appealable decision).
- Date Withdrawn – The date on which an applicant notifies the agency it no longer wishes to pursue an application and withdraws the application.
- Date Authorized – The date on which both the agency and the applicant agree to the contractual terms and conditions of an authorization.
- Application Pending – An application that has been received by the agency, but not yet processed.

GSA has reviewed and aggregated the responses to the survey questions and provides data most recently collected for Q3 of FY 2024. Of the 43 agencies and bureaus surveyed that meet the E.O.'s definition of Federal property managing agencies, 31 responded to the survey and 6 processed applications during the reporting period. Table 1 provides an aggregated summary of the number of applications received, the number of applications approved, the number of applications rejected, the number of working days each application was pending before being approved or rejected, the number of applications authorized, and the number of applications withdrawn.

The number of applications approved, pending or rejected during Q3 of FY 2024 is not directly tied to the total number of applications received by the agencies during this reporting period. This is attributable to a continuous backlog in processing pending applications. OMB, GSA and the SFP continue to encourage agencies to be more proactive in the processing of applications. Changes in the data resulting from the targeted outreach to agencies, as well as other factors, are outlined below.

The number of applications received by Federal property managing agencies increased slightly from 85 in the second quarter (Q2) of FY 2024 to 86 in Q3 of FY 2024 (see Chart 1 and Table 1, above). Agencies did not cite a specific reason for the increase but noted demand for communications broadband permits remain strong. For a breakdown of the number of applications received for each agency, see Chart D-1 in Appendix D.

The number of applications approved increased from 41 in Q2 of FY 2024 to 77 in Q3 of FY 2024, and the number of applications authorized also increased from 41 in Q2 of FY 2024 to 76 in Q3 of FY 2024 (see Table 1, Chart 2 and Chart 3, above). The increase can be partly attributed to the U.S. Department of the Interior’s Bureau of Land Management (BLM), typically the most prolific Federal property managing agency in approving broadband siting permits. In the last three reporting cycles, BLM incurred functionality and implementation issues with its new records system, the Mineral and Land Records System, which tracks and monitors broadband (and other) permit applications and projects. BLM has been working diligently to train field office employees on the new records system and has reported increased efficiency in employee usage with the system which likely is the driver behind the increase in applications approved and authorized this quarter. All the approved applications were approved within the 270-day statutory time frame.

For a breakdown of the number of applications approved by each agency, see Chart D-2 in Appendix D.

The average number of days applications were pending prior to approval increased from 141 days in Q2 of FY 2024 to 210 days in Q3 of FY 2024, which is still well within the 270-day statutory requirement (see Table 1 and Chart 2, above). Agencies were not able to identify a specific factor that led to the increase. For a breakdown of the average number of days an application was pending prior to approval per agency, see Chart D-2 in Appendix D.

The number of applications withdrawn decreased from 6 in Q2 of FY 2024 to 3 in Q3 of FY 2024 (see Table 1 and Chart 4, above). It is important to note that, unlike rejected applications, withdrawn applications are typically initiated by the wireless provider/applicant and not the agency and can occur for a multitude of reasons. In Q3 of FY 2024, reasons for withdrawn applications included applicants deciding not to proceed with a permit due to increased cost projections and applicants deciding a site was no longer needed. For a breakdown of the number of applications withdrawn for each agency, see Chart D-3 in Appendix D. There were no applications rejected by federal property managing agencies this quarter.

The number of applications pending increased from 638 at the end of Q2 of FY 2024 to 644 in Q3 of FY 2024 (see Table 1, above). This increase in the number of applications pending cannot be attributed to any single factor; however, agencies noted that some field offices have high turnover, which may impact their ability to process larger quantities of broadband siting permits consistently. The number of applications pending at the end of the current reporting period (Q3 of FY 2024) was calculated by adding the number of applications pending from the previous quarter (Q2 of FY 2024) (i.e., 638) to the number of applications received during Q3 of FY 2024 (i.e., 86). From this total, GSA staff then subtracted the number approved (i.e., 77), the number withdrawn (i.e., 3) and the number rejected (i.e., 0) in Q3 of FY 2024. The applications remaining at the end of the quarter had an average pending time of 252 days. This figure is most likely the result of inconsistent approaches to counting what constitutes a newly received application and when the timeline starts. Agencies have noted that some field offices count receipt of a new application from the moment any part of the application is received (i.e., an incomplete application), while others wait until a fully completed application is received to start the clock. GSA is aware of this issue and has been working with agencies to adopt a more consistent approach to logging and counting new and pending applications.
